Rudick Forensic Engineering (RFE) (www.rfeweb.com) is a highly respected forensic engineering firm specializing in damage investigations and failure analysis. Founded in 1965 and located in Youngstown, Ohio, we service a national client base, with a heavy concentration of work in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan. RFE’s services include determining cause, separating damages, evaluating and analyzing extent of damage, developing repair scopes and estimates, and providing litigation support and testimony.

RFE is forming a new Fire Investigation Division to fully serve our client base and provide structure fire investigations of the same exceptional quality and full service caliber.

Responsibilities of the Senior Fire Investigator include but are not limited to:

- Perform origin and cause investigations
- Maintain, manage, and coordinate individual workload
- Prepare quality-written technical reports detailing conclusions and opinions
- Provide litigation support and testimony
- Develop rapport with clients to expand business opportunities

This position is hands-on, and requires exposure to all types of weather conditions, working in enclosed spaces, bending, climbing and lifting in excess of 60+ pounds.

Qualifications/ Requirements:

- BS Degree, Fire Science (engineering or technology), or industry recognized equivalent
- CFI (IAAI) certification and a minimum of 5-10+ years of experience determining the origin and cause of fires/explosions involving buildings, equipment, appliances, vehicles and other products, including deposition and trial testimony
- PI license in OH; ability to obtain license in PA, WV, and other contiguous/adjacent states
- Experience conducting fire investigations and preservation of evidence in strict compliance with NFPA 921
- Detail oriented and extremely organized

- Applicant must possess excellent writing and speaking communication skills. This position involves hands-on investigative work in the field, with follow-up analysis and report writing.

- Working knowledge of Microsoft Office software and industry-related technology

Benefits:

- Starting salary commensurate with credentials and experience.

- A company vehicle will be provided after an initial orientation period.

- Laptop computer, cell phone, camera, and typical site inspection tools for the position are provided

- RFE will pay for all certifications renewals and state license registration costs, as well as required professional continuing education

- Health care, dental care and disability insurance programs are available.

- 401k eligibility after 1,000 hours of employment with a company-matching plan

- Vacation, holiday, sick & personal leave plans

- RFE provides a smoke-free environment; non-smokers should apply

To be considered for this exceptional opportunity, please forward a current resume to our staffing consultant: ksullivan@staffrightservices.com.

Staff Right Professional Services, LLC, • 7301 West Blvd., Boardman, OH 44512 • 330-726-6754 • www.staffrightservices.com